(anc. n.^o 27)

qui croissent au tour de Chantilly par

Paul Boccone Sicilien herboriste Le Vingtiesme octobre mil sixcent soixante et unze

La Maison de Chantilly a esté toujours re-nommée pour sa belle situation, pour les delices de toutes sortes de chasses, pour sa grande forest, et par son gros, et antien Chateau: Mais aujourdhuy etant embellie de bastimens a la moderne, de jardins, de fontaines, et de beaux ruisseaux, et canaux elle est si belle, qu'elle peut fort bien servir a la demeure d'un Roy. Quant a moy apres auoir admiré toutes ces choses, qui sont communes, et exposées aux yeux de tous les curieux ie me suis arrêté a examiner les Plantes qui naissent dans un si aimable lieu Siluye Siluye! tu mi fai ricordare le tue disaventure amoroze. Ma ti prometto che hoggi essendo al servizio di Monseigneur le Duc tu sarai da qui auanti luogo di piacere, e non di pianti, ne di lamenti d'Amore.

Siluye io t'amo.

Il ne faut pas mépriser ce livre quoique les figures de Plantes n'y soient pas dans la dernière perfection.
M.^r Boccone Sicilien a eu dessein de montrer l'invention d'imprimer toutes sortes des Plantes par le moyen de la plante même dans le naturel. Ce secret est fort curieux, et fort nécessaire pour représenter au vif toutes les fibres de la Plante, et la disposition de toutes ses parties.
